Upcoming meeting

The November meeting topic will be winter prep, storage and care. We will have an open discussion with club members about the successes and failures with how they have, and now, store their trees, how to prep them, and care for them over the winter months.

Bring your stories about the successes and the failures you've had with wintering your trees. We can all learn from your experiences.

President's Message

Hello again,

Well, another bonsai season is quickly coming to an end with fall in full swing and winter coming up quickly. But that doesn't mean the club is done during the "non bonsai" months. We still have the November general club meeting and our Christmas party in December. Your executive committee is also hard at work finalizing next year's schedule to be posted on the website by the end of December. One very exciting event that you can add to your schedule now is next year's annual exhibit. Our very special guest judge and artist will be Bjorn BJORHOLM. Bjorn is a very well-known and respected bonsai artist who owns Eisei-En Bonsai in Nashville. If you're not familiar with Bjorn, I encourage you to check out his website and YouTube channel where he posts a lot of free content. The annual exhibit will be at Lynden Sculpture Garden again next year and will be held on August 25-27.

Speaking of the website, we have been working on redesigning the site to make it more user friendly, will be providing all recorded meetings for club members to access and are working towards making on-line education opportunities available soon. There will also be new merchandise for you to purchase online very soon.

Looking forward to seeing everyone at the next club meeting on Saturday November 5th.

Thanks,

Erich

New arrivals this season

Next month we will begin our 23rd bare root seedling season. In the meantime, please check our updated catalog of 33 different potted seedlings. With temperatures cooling, now is the perfect time ship any of our new or classic varieties of established young trees. And stay tuned for our upcoming launch of bare root and plugs, as e-mail subscribers will be alerted in November.

General Meeting-October 1, 2022

October's meeting truly was about fall work on deciduous trees. Brian and Steve gave us lots of great information!

Another successful Nursery Crawl. The rain held off and many treasures were found. Participants left with white pines, yews, cotoneasters, junipers and other varieties. At half price, these will be excellent pieces to learn more about horticulture of the different species, fertilizing, repotting and styling. For those who couldn't make it, check out Minor's Garden Center's 1/2 price sale. Lots of outstanding stock to choose from. Stock that specifically will grow in Wisconsin weather!
